YEA, ENGLAND

Is there more to England than the fabulous Beatles? Rolling Stones? Yes! England is a beautiful country full of interesting things to see and do, especially in London. Some of the interesting sights are the Tower of London, where they keep the Crown Jewels, Times Square, Buckingham Palace, where the Queen sometimes stays, Madame Tussaud's Wax Museum, Big Ben, of course, and Windsor Castle, where I saw Prince Charles. These are just a few of the interesting things. While looking at these things I took in the famous fashion houses and just the people in general. These people drive on the other side of the road, which can get an American or European quite mixed up. I stayed in London for one week and I really enjoyed myself. Now I know why these people love their country. It's so different.

SECOND PRIZE — $3.00

REPORTER

Dear Archie,

I play the flute in a band. It is made of sterling silver or nickel. It is very light. Flutes of various kinds have been used in different countries of the world as far back as the history of music can take us.

Today the flute is used chiefly in orchestras. The flute has one of the most beautiful voices of the whole orchestra. The tone is sweet and gentle and the higher notes are brilliant.

The flute is held sideways, and is played by blowing across an opening near the end of the tube. The different notes are formed by opening and closing the finger holes and keys and also by blowing with varying force. The greater the air pressure in the tube, the higher the sound will be.

The great composer, Mozart, wrote an opera called "The Magic Flute". So if you are joining a band next year, play the flute.

THE MERRY MONARCH FESTIVAL

Each year in Hawaii the Merry Monarch Festival celebrates the reign of King Kalakaua. It consists of a contest, which many men enter to become called King Kalakaua. In the contest each man is to let his beard grow and the one that looks the most like King Kalakaua is the winner.

Last year, 1964, Mr. Robert Kaula Sr. won the contest. The night before the contest was held Mrs. Kaula had a dream that her husband won the contest, and he did. This year, 1965, Mr. Kaula won again. By the way, to enter the contest you have to be Hawaiian. ALOHA!

THE HISTORY OF THE BICYCLE

The story of the bicycle begins with Karl von Drais, a Bavarian forest keeper of Mannheim, Germany. He designed the dandy horse bicycle in 1817. It was an improvement of an earlier machine invented by a Frenchman, and it was little more than two wheels attached to a wooden bar, which the rider straddled. He went forward by pushing backwards against the ground with his feet. The high price of the dandy horse kept it from becoming very common.
